

LEARNKEY CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Training Provider Continues Tradition of High Quality in an Industry of Constant Change

ST. GEORGE, UT — October 16, 2007— LearnKey Inc., a premier global provider of self-paced training solutions for corporate, education, government and personal users, marks 20 years of dedicated service to its customers across the globe.

“Our mission has been to create flexible expert learning solutions,” said company founder and CEO, John Clemens, “solutions that work for everyone because they are not only easy to use, but they are extremely engaging and interactive. LearnKey takes the classroom experience to the individual learner—where and when it’s needed.”

From the company's earliest days in 1987, when Clemens filmed training videos for users of WordPerfect in a small basement studio, LearnKey has remained at the forefront of evolving technology, pioneering multimedia-based training. LearnKey has built its reputation by delivering the highest production quality courseware, adhering strictly to learning objectives and strong instructional design.

LearnKey continues to define a strong vision based on their understanding of the e-learning industry. Over the last 20 years they have experienced the highs and lows of the industry, but their longevity proves that the key element to their success is the fact that they listen and respond to their customers appropriately. LearnKey is a credible company in our industry today.

LearnKey has helped organizations of all sizes and styles accomplish their goals. Large corporations such as 3M, Proctor & Gamble, ALCOA, Sylvan Learning as well as mid-market companies such as Blue Cross Blue Shield of Kansas City and Boyd Gaming, have all depended on LearnKey to deliver a training solution that successfully instructs and guides while keeping the subject matter interesting and appealing.

In addition, government agencies, including the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), have called upon LearnKey to help them achieve their essential training and productivity goals. LearnKey also takes great pride in providing learning solutions for schools and districts nationwide, including the University of Phoenix, New York City Public School System, Albuquerque Public Schools and several Texas Education Service Centers, as well as non-profit organizations like the Boys and Girls Clubs of America.

“Our mission is to help people gain knowledge and improve their personal situation through effective training. We use state-of-the-art technology and proven teaching techniques to create powerful educational tools,” said Clemens.

LearnKey is offering 20% off any purchase through the end of October 2007 to celebrate this extraordinary milestone. Visit www.learnkey.com/anniversary_20years.
